The FIFA World Cup 2026 is set to be the biggest football tournament in history, bringing together nations, fans, and superstars from around the globe. Hosted across United States, Canada, and Mexico, this edition will mark a historic expansion of the tournament format and excitement.

Teams & Qualification
For the first time ever, the tournament will feature 48 teams, expanded from the traditional 32. Teams from every continent will qualify through regional competitions organized by FIFA, giving more countries a chance to compete on the world stage.
Tournament Format & Groups
The 48 teams will be divided into 12 groups of 4 teams each.
Each team will play 3 group-stage matches
The top 2 teams from each group, along with the 8 best third-placed teams, will advance

This leads into a Round of 32 knockout stage, followed by Round of 16, Quarterfinals, Semifinals, and the Final
This new format ensures more matches, more drama, and more opportunities for underdog stories.
Superstars to Watch

Football fans worldwide are eager to see if legends like Cristiano Ronaldo and Lionel Messi will make their final World Cup appearances. Both icons have defined an era of football, and their presence would add even more magic to the tournament.

Alongside them, a new generation of stars will shine, making this World Cup a perfect blend of experience and youth.
Why This World Cup Is Special

First-ever 48-team format
Hosted across 3 countries
